SPECIAL EDITION: CARING FOR AMERICA

CARING FOR OUR COMMUNITY DURING THIS CHALLENGING TIME.

With the uncertainty and fear of the unknown as it relates to the Coronavirus, it is important to stop and reflect on the blessings we have and appreciate those in our family, community, and state. Though important, social distancing can also have a stressful outcome for some people in the form of alienation and loneliness. This can occur among groups of people that dedicate their lives to helping others. WRW is committed to supporting our first responders and health care workers and letting them know how much they are truly appreciated.

Each of us has a gift to share, whether it be making masks, delivering meals, or just a smile or gesture of caring by shopping for those unable to leave their homes. As Mother Teresa, stated, we are all connected. Let us continue to take the time to focus beyond ourselves and help others. No gesture of love is too small.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear WRW Members,

Hope you and yours are doing well and staying safe. The month of May is traditionally when we get to honor mothers. It was President Woodrow Wilson who signed the proclamation designating Mother's Day as a national holiday to be celebrated on the second Sunday in May. I want to wish all WRW mothers, grandmothers, godmothers and aunts a very Happy Mother's Day and to "Thank you" for all you do for your families, friends and community. You are an inspiration:

Here's to STRONG WOMEN
May we
Know them
May we
Be them
May we Raise them

Looking forward to being with you soon.

Blessings,
Barb

Quarantine Cooking Recipe Exchange

Going back to old times with a recipe exchange! As the world is social distancing right now, many of us are experimenting in our kitchens to help pass the time. So you have been invited to be a part of a #Quarantine Cooking recipe exchange! Yay!

Please send a recipe to the person whose name is in position #1 (even if you don't know them) and it should be something quick, easy and without rare ingredients. Actually, the best one is the one you know in your head and can type right now. Don't agonize over it... It is the recipe you make when you are short on time.

After you've sent your recipe to the person in position #1 below (and only to that person), copy this email into a new email, move my name to the top and put your name in position #2. Only my and your name should show when you send your email. Send to 20 friends via BCC.

If you cannot do this within 5 days, let me know so it will be fair to those participating. You should receive 36 recipes. It's fun to see where they come from! Seldom does anyone drop out because we all need new ideas. The turnaround is fast, as there only 2 names on the list and you only have to do this once. If this is too much of a PITA, feel free to ignore, have a safe day.

This just in.... Jobless claims in the US are highest since 2009 -- and are likely to go higher!

Nevada among states hardest hit by coronavirus-fueled job losses. America has been battered by job losses during the coronavirus pandemic, with some of the worst occurring in key swing states ahead of the U.S. presidential election in November. Roughly 21% of workers in Michigan have applied for unemployment benefits over the past four weeks, while 19.8% filed jobless claims in Pennsylvania, according to data compiled by USA TODAY.

Nevada and Ohio, two other critical battleground states in 2020, stand at 19.3% and 14.6%, respectively. More than 22 million people have applied for unemployment claims over the past month, or about 14% of the workforce, wiping out all of the job gains since the Great Recession.

Economists warn that unemployment benefits will likely remain elevated in the coming weeks as more Americans file for claims from layoffs and furloughs following processing difficulties. Employment of workers receiving hourly wages in the food and retail industries is currently down nearly 60% since January, according to Oxford Economics. Over that time, workers in these small businesses have lost about $1,400 in monthly income per person relative to January levels, the firm's data showed.

Hawaii, known for its tourism industry, is among states getting hit the hardest, with 21.7% of its workforce applying for unemployment benefits over the past month. Outside of the services sector, economists are monitoring goods-producing industries like manufacturing, construction and agriculture to see whether job losses could accelerate as struggling businesses await government aid.

"In the most affected states and services sectors, we are literally running out of jobs to terminate," Daniel Alpert, co-creator of the U.S. Private Sector Job Quality Index, said in a note. "Next week, if funds are still not moving to employers, will see a spike in claims by white-collar service employees."

In bigger states, New York, the epicenter of the virus in the U.S., had nearly 1.2 million people file for jobless insurance the past month, representing 12.4% of its workforce. California had the most claims at 2.8 million

Rhode Island, meanwhile, had some of the highest percentage of claims in the country at 20.6%. South Dakota had the smallest percentage at 4.9%. (South Dakota did not shut down its economy.)

Wyoming was among states with the fewest claims over the past four weeks at 21,496, or 7.3% of workers filing for benefits. In Florida, just 653,975 claims were filed over that span, representing 6.2% of its workforce. To be sure, some residents in the state have complained of difficulty collecting unemployment benefits. Texas has accepted 1 million claims, or 7.1% of its workforce.

Coronavirus: Ways to Practice Good Mental Health

- Set limits on media consumption. It is good to stay informed, but make sure to take breaks.
- Practice self-care by eating healthy foods, getting enough sleep, and hydrating as often as needed
- If you are able, take advantage of your time at home and complete projects like cleaning, planting and organizing. Studies have shown a more organized environment can promote good mental health.
- Spend some time with your pet or walking neighborhood dogs. (Check on your senior neighbors; they may need some help here as well!)

How to help your child work through fears and uncertainties

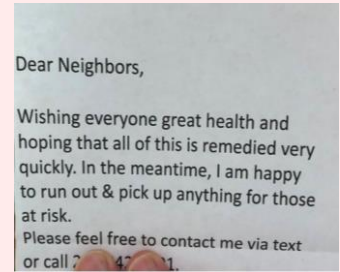

- Make developmentally informed decisions about what children need to know and understand in order to feel safe.
- Focus on creating an environment where children can ask the questions that matter to them.
- Reassure children they are going to be safe and that you as their caregiver will also be taking steps to ensure that you stay safe as well.
- Encourage compassion for vulnerable people and expanding your child's circle of concern
- Avoid stigmatization by emphasizing that getting sick is part of being human and we all need to help each other feel safe.

Coronavirus NC: Random Acts of Kindness Raising Spirits During Tough Times

Even during the toughest of times, people are finding ways to spread positivity and cheer. People around the world, in the middle of a health crisis, are sharing their random acts of kindness to help lift the spirits of friends, neighbors, and strangers. With news of COVID-19 updates, warnings, and concerns running through our daily feed 24/7, it's nice to see people stepping up and doing random acts of kindness during this time of need.

- In Cary, sidewalk chalk messages like "stay strong," "dance first think later" and "you can" are meant to raise spirits.
- Kind children provided a small concert for their neighbor during quarantine.
- During a time of hoarding, a community donated to a food bank.
- Considerate neighbors are offering to help others.
- Friends are reading to each other through doors.
- Families are putting up Christmas lights to spread cheer.
- Asking someone if they are okay, leaving a note at the neighbors to see if they need something while you run to the store, and sharing a supportive smiles as you pass strangers on the street are ways folks across America are showering acts of kindness on each other during these unprecedented times.
- Neighbors sang "Happy Birthday" to a n 80-year old woman from their windows.
- An anonymous couple left a Houston restaurant a whopping $9,400 tip to help its staff get through the coronavirus-caused lockdown.
- A boy named Preston, of Phoenix, and his family are making face masks to help out with the supply shortage in the Valley.
- Young Phoenix brothers make cards for healthcare workers.
- Kentucky Man Buys Dinner for All the First Responders in His County.

- * The First Step Act's reforms addressed inequities in sentencing laws that disproportionately harmed Black Americans and reformed mandatory minimums that created unfair outcomes.
- * The First Step Act expanded judicial discretion in sentencing of non-violent crimes.
- * Over 90% of those benefitting from the retroactive sentencing reductions in the First Step Act are Black Americans.

TRUMP SUPPORTERS

In light of the Coronavirus pandemic, the Trump campaign has suspended direct voter contact efforts for now. The campaign has pivoted to doing online trainings through Zoom video conferencing and is asking for volunteers to help reach voters over the phone using the Red Dialer phone app.

The emphasis of these calls is to be good neighbors and let Nevadans know that we are thinking about them and that President Trump is doing all he can to manage this crisis.

The phone system can be downloaded for iPhones or Apple computers from the app store by searching "RedDialer." You can also use Reddialer.gov from your PC or any device that has Internet access such as tablets, phones, and laptops. Once the app is downloaded, volunteers can contact Caroline Smith, the Trump Victory Recruitment Captain, a staff member listed below or create an account at <https://crm.advantage.gov/Volunteer/Create> for an individual training session and schedule.
