LET'S CELEBRATE NEVADA'S RE-OPENING & SOLIDARITY! BYOB- "BRING YOUR OWN BUDDY"

Washoe Republican Women invite you to attend our luncheon meeting on Wednesday, June 17, 2020

With

Special Guest: Lillian Virgin Finnegan, Suffragist

You will meet Lillian in 1915 after women gained the right to vote in Nevada. She was a suffragist and worked closely with Nevada Governor Emmett Boyle during his terms in office. Locally, she was responsible for inspiring many community endeavors that helped to save Genoa, Nevada's oldest settlement.

Portrayed by Kim Copol-Harris

We will be awarding the Barbara Vucanovich Military Academy Scholarship to Miss Karen Miranda

2020 VISION

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear WRW Members,

Hope you and yours are doing well and staying safe. We have so much to celebrate in June. American Flag Day on June 14 is when we honor the history and meaning of our flag. The colors of the flag represent valor (red), liberty and purity (white) and justice and loyalty (blue). Also, on June 14 is the when the United States Army celebrates its birthday. On June 20 we will transition from Spring to Summer and on June 21st is the day to celebrate and honor fathers. Wishing you a wonderful June and looking forward to being with you soon.

Looking forward to being with you soon.

Blessings,
Barb

FLAG DAY June 14th: Honoring Our Flag- What Does It Mean?

STANDARDS of RESPECT

The Flag Code, which formalizes and unifies the traditional ways in which we give respect to the flag, also contains specific instructions on how the flag is not to be used. They are:

- The flag should never be dipped to any person or thing. It is flown upside down only as a distress signal.
- The flag should not be used as a drapery, or for covering a speaker's desk, draping a platform, or for any decoration in general. Bunting of blue, white and red stripes is available for these purposes. The blue stripe of the bunting should be on the top.
- The flag should never be used for any advertising purpose. It should not be embroidered, printed or otherwise impressed on such articles as cushions, handkerchiefs, napkins, boxes, or anything intended to be discarded after temporary use. Advertising signs should not be attached to the staff or halyard
- The flag should not be used as part of a costume or athletic uniform, except that a flag patch may be used on the uniform of military personnel, fireman, policeman and members of patriotic organizations.
- The flag should never have placed on it, or attached to it, any mark, insignia, letter, word, number, figure, or drawing of any kind.
- The flag should never be used as a receptacle for receiving, holding, carrying, or delivering anything.

When the flag is lowered, no part of it should touch the ground or any other object; it should be received by waiting hands and arms. To store the flag, it should be folded neatly and ceremoniously. The flag should be cleaned and mended when necessary. When a flag is so worn it is no longer fit to serve as a symbol of our country, it should be destroyed by burning in a dignified manner.

Note: Most American Legion Posts regularly conduct a dignified flag burning ceremony, often on Flag Day, June 14th. Many Cub Scout Packs, Boy Scout Troops, and Girl Scout Troops retire flags regularly as well. Contact your local American Legion Hall or Scout Troop to inquire about the availability of this service.

Displaying the Flag Outdoors

When the flag is displayed from a staff projecting from a window, balcony, or a building, the union should be at the peak of the staff unless the flag is at half-staff. When it is displayed from the same flagpole with another flag - of a state, community, society or Scout unit - the flag of the United States must always be at the top except that the church pennant may be flown above the flag during church services for Navy personnel when conducted by a Naval chaplain on a ship at sea.

When the flag is displayed over a street, it should be hung vertically, with the union to the north or east. If the flag is suspended over a sidewalk, the flag's union should be farthest from the building.

When flown with flags of states, communities, or societies on separate flag poles which are of the same height and in a straight line, the flag of the United States is always placed in the position of honor - to its own right.

..The other flags may be smaller but none may be larger.

..No other flag ever should be placed above it.

..The flag of the United States is always the first flag raised and the last to be lowered.

2020 VISION

When the flag is displayed over a street, it should be hung vertically, with the union to the north or east. If the flag is suspended over a sidewalk, the flag's union should be farthest from the building. When flown with flags of states, communities, or societies on separate flag poles which are of the same height and in a straight line, the flag of the United States is always placed in the position of honor - to its own right.

- ..The other flags may be smaller but none may be larger.
- ..No other flag ever should be placed above it.
- ..The flag of the United States is always the first flag raised and the last to be lowered.

When flown with the national banner of other countries, each flag must be displayed from a separate pole of the same height. Each flag should be the same size. They should be raised and lowered simultaneously. The flag of one nation may not be displayed above that of another nation.

Raising and Lowering the Flag

The flag should be raised briskly and lowered slowly and ceremoniously. Ordinarily it should be displayed only between sunrise and sunset. It should be illuminated if displayed at night.

The flag of the United States of America is saluted as it is hoisted and lowered. The salute is held until the flag is unsnapped from the halyard or through the last note of music, whichever is the longest.

Displaying the Flag Indoors

When on display, the flag is accorded the place of honor, always positioned to its own right. Place it to the right of the speaker or staging area or sanctuary. Other flags should be to the left. The flag of the United States of America should be at the center and at the highest point of the group when a number of flags of states, localities, or societies are grouped for display. When one flag is used with the flag of the United States of America and the staffs are crossed, the flag of the United States is placed on its own right with its staff in front of the other flag. When displaying the flag against a wall, vertically or horizontally, the flag's union (stars) should be at the top, to the flag's own right, and to the observer's left.

Parading and Saluting the Flag

When carried in a procession, the flag should be to the right of the marchers. When other flags are carried, the flag of the United States may be centered in front of the others or carried to their right. When the flag passes in a procession, or when it is hoisted or lowered, all should face the flag and salute.

The Salute

To salute, all persons come to attention. Those in uniform give the appropriate formal salute. Citizens not in uniform salute by placing their right hand over the heart and men with head cover should remove it and hold it to left shoulder, hand over the heart. Members of organizations in formation salute upon command of the person in charge.

The Pledge of Allegiance and National Anthem

The pledge of allegiance should be rendered by standing at attention, facing the flag, and saluting. When the national anthem is played or sung, citizens should stand at attention and salute at the first note and hold the salute through the last note. The salute is directed to the flag, if displayed, otherwise to the music.

The Flag in Mourning

To place the flag at half-staff, hoist it to the peak for an instant and lower it to a position half way between the top and bottom of the staff. The flag is to be raised again to the peak for a moment before it is lowered. On Memorial Day the flag is displayed at half staff until noon and at full staff from noon to sunset. The flag is to be flown at half-staff in mourning for designated, principal government leaders and upon presidential or gubernatorial order. When used to cover a casket, the flag should be placed with the union at the head and over the left shoulder. It should not be lowered into the grave

2020 VISION

Tomb of the Unknown Soldier- Did you know.....?

1. How many steps does the guard take during his walk across the Tomb of the Unknown and why? Answer: 21 steps. It alludes to the twenty-one-gun salute, which is the highest honor given any military or foreign dignitary.
2. How long does he wait after his about face to begin his return walk and why? Answer: 1 second for the same reason as above.
3. Why are his gloves wet? Answer: His gloves are moistened to prevent his losing his grip on the rifle.
4. Does he carry his rifle on the same shoulder all the time and if not, why not? Answer: He carries the rifle on the shoulder away from the tomb. After his march across the path, he executes an about face and moves the rifle to the outside shoulder.
5. How often are the guards changed? Answer: Guards are changed every thirty minutes, twenty-Four hours a day, 365 days a year.
6. What are the physical traits of the guard limited to? Answer: For a person to apply for guard duty at the tomb, he must be between 5' 10' and 6' 2' tall and his waist size cannot exceed 30.'

Other requirements of the Guard:

- must commit 2 years of life to guard the tomb, live in a barracks under the tomb, and cannot drink any alcohol on or off duty for the rest of their lives.
- They cannot swear in public for the rest of their lives and cannot disgrace the uniform {fighting} or the tomb in any way. After two years, the guard is given a wreath pin that is worn on their lapel signifying they served as guard of the tomb. There are only 400 presently worn.
- The guard must obey these rules for the rest of their lives or give up the wreath pin.
- The shoes are specially made with very thick soles to keep the heat and cold from their feet. There are metal heel plates that extend to the top of the shoe in order to make the loud click as they come to a halt.
- There are no wrinkles, folds or lint on the uniform. Guards dress for duty in front of a full-length mirror.
- The first six months of duty a guard cannot talk to anyone, nor watch TV. All off duty time is spent studying the 175 notable people laid to rest in Arlington National Cemetery. A guard must memorize who they are and where they are interred. Among the notables are: President Taft, Joe E. Lewis {the boxer} and Medal of Honor recipient Audie Murphy, {the most decorated soldier of WWII} of Hollywood fame.

Every guard spends five hours a day getting his uniforms ready for guard duty.

ETERNAL REST GRANT THEM O LORD, AND LET PERPETUAL LIGHT SHINE UPON THEM.

In 2003 as Hurricane Isabelle was approaching Washington, DC, our US Senate/House took 2 days off with anticipation of the storm. On the ABC evening news, it was reported that because of the dangers from the hurricane, the military members assigned the duty of guarding the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier were given permission to suspend the assignment. They respectfully declined the offer, 'No way, Sir!' Soaked to the skin, marching in the pelting rain of a tropical storm, they said that guarding the Tomb was not just an assignment, it was the highest honor that can be afforded to a serviceperson. The tomb has been patrolled continuously, 24/7, since 1930.

HISTORY OF NEVADA VOTING

When Nevada became a state in October of 1864 it had two electoral votes. (The third elector was snowbound.) The current number of electoral votes is six. The Republicans dominated from the late 1960's through the late 1980's. Nevada's population has tripled since 1980, with a 35% growth between 2000 and 2010. In 2016, Hillary Clinton beat President Trump 48% to 46%. It was only the second time since 1908 that Nevada sided with the candidate who lost the Presidency. The other time was in 1976 when Nevada voted for Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter won. The main reason Nevada holds an early caucus is the state's diversity. In the past, we have had a significant percentage of recent immigrants. We had Chinese and Irish come to work on the Comstock, as well as Southern and Eastern Europeans in the early twentieth century. Recently there has been an Asian and Hispanic influx. All of this has given the Silver State different demographics than the traditional states, and has given Nevada more of a voice in the Presidential nominating process.

As citizens of this great nation, it is kindness, love, and compassion for each other that brings us together - and keeps us together. These are the values Donald and I will bring to the White House.

-Melania Trump

2020 VISION

USING COLOR TO CONVINC

BY EINA V RABINOVITCH-FOX

For most of the 19th century, suffragists didn't incorporate visuals in their movement. It was only during the early 20th century that suffragists started to realize that, as Glenda Tinnin, one of the organizers of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, argued, "An idea that is driven home to the mind through the eye, produces a more striking and lasting impression than any that goes through the ear."

Becoming aware of the way visuals could shift public opinion, suffragists began to incorporate media and publicity tactics in to their campaign, using all kinds of spectacles to popularize their cause. Color played a crucial role in these efforts, especially during public demonstrations such as pageants and parades.

Suffragists deployed white to convey these messages, but they also turned to a much more diverse palette. Part of their goal was to convey that they were not devilish Amazons set to destroy gender hierarchies, as some of their critics claimed. Rather, suffragists sought to present an image of themselves as beautiful and skilled women who would bring civility to politics and cleanse the system of corruption.

The 1913 Washington, D.C. parade was the first national event that put the cause of the suffragists on front pages of newspapers around the country. Organizers used an intricate color scheme to create an impression of harmony and order. Marchers were divided by professions, countries, and states, and each group adopted a distinct color. Social workers wore dark blue, educators and students wore green, writers wore white and purple, and artists wore pale rose.

Being the media-savvy women that they were, suffragists realized that it wasn't enough to create an appealing impression of themselves. They also needed to come up with a recognizable brand. Inspired by the British suffragettes and their campaign colors—purple, white, and green—the National Woman's Party also adopted a set of three colors: purple, white, and golden yellow.

They replaced green with yellow to pay tribute to Susan B. Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Stanton, who used the sunflower—Kansas's state flower—when they campaigned for a failed statewide suffrage referendum in 1867.

These American suffrage colors—purple, white, and yellow—stood for loyalty, purity, and hope, respectively. And while all three of them were used during parades, it was the brightness of the white that left the biggest impression.

Women Making History-Did You Know?

The First Women Elected to Congress Was a Republican

Jeannette Rankin of Montana was the first woman elected to Congress. She was a Republican and a suffragist. "I may be the first woman member of Congress," she observed upon her election in 1916. "But I won't be the last."

Barbara Farrell Vucanovich (June 22, 1921 – June 10, 2013) was an American Republican politician, the first woman and first Hispanic woman to represent Nevada elected to serve in the United States House of Representatives, in which she served from 1983 to 1997. Congresswoman Barbara Vucanovich was elected in 1982 to represent Nevada's Second Congressional District. She retired in 1996 after seven terms, having served the second longest term of any Nevadan in the U.S. House of Representatives. (Walter Baring served ten non-consecutive terms). Vucanovich was the first woman elected to represent Nevada in Congress.

Record Number of Republican Women File for U.S. House

2020 is shaping up to be a banner year for Republican women. According to new data from the Center for American Women and Politics (CAWP) at Rutgers University, a record 195 Republican women have filed to run for the U.S. House of Representatives this year, shattering the previous record of 133 in 2010. Filing deadlines remain open in 14 states, so the number may go even higher.

Nevada Residents Demand Nevada's Economy Reopens

People March to Governor's Mansion in Carson City Again During Rally
May 16, 2020

People gathered in Carson City and marched to the Governor's Mansion to demand the reopening of Nevada's economy. About 150 demonstrators returned to the Governor's Mansion in Carson City to protest his handling of the coronavirus pandemic.

Some carried signs calling for Gov. Steve Sisolak to be recalled. Others carried signs supporting President Donald Trump's re-election. Some protesters were armed. Capitol police and Nevada Highway Patrol troopers were on scene, where protesters were chanting and shouting but remained peaceful.

Update on Phase 2 Re-opening The Economy

Entering Phase Two brings a significantly wider array of businesses back into operation, adding to those given the go-ahead in Phase One on May 9, including food establishments. The newly added businesses include casinos and the following:

- Bars that don't serve food
- Gyms and other health and fitness facilities
- Spas, massage therapy and aesthetic service establishments
- Tattoo and piercing shops
- Recreational areas and pools
- Movie theaters, bowling alleys, arcades and similar establishments
- State parks for limited day-use and overnight stays
- Sporting events, concerts and theater performances without an audience

Among those that remain closed:

- Events with live audiences
- Strip clubs and other adult entertainment establishments
- Nightclubs and day clubs
- Brothels

Sisolak said youth sports would also return in Phase Two "at some point," pending more review. "There are a lot of considerations at play here, and for our youth, we want to make sure we have a strong, safe plan in place," he said. Sisolak is said he would modify his rules for public gatherings, raising the size limit to 50, from 10. With that change, the governor also announced that places of worship will again be able to hold in-person services as long as they keep in-person attendance to under 50 and adhere to social distancing guidelines, including keeping people 6 feet apart. "I am confident faith leaders will follow the guidance and restrictions necessary to protect the health and welfare of their communities," the governor said in his remarks. Despite the additional rollbacks, the governor again urged people to wear face coverings in public and "maintain at least six feet of social distancing when you are out in public and around people from other households. The governor said the time frame for Phase Two would be similar to the initial phase, lasting two to three weeks.

2020 VISION

Coping With Coronavirus COVID-19 Can Dogs Get It?

Can dogs contract COVID-19?

Dogs can contract coronaviruses, most commonly the canine respiratory coronavirus. This specific novel coronavirus (COVID-19) is not believed to be a health threat to dogs, but dogs can test positive for the virus.

A Pug named Winston in Chapel Hill, North Carolina is the first known case of a dog testing positive for COVID-19 in the United States. Three family members who lived in the home, two of whom are front-line health care workers, had tested positive for COVID-19. As part of a study at Duke University, the family and pets were tested, with only Winston testing positive out of two dogs, a cat, and a lizard in the household. The dog experienced mild symptoms and is recovering well. “(The dog) licks all of our dinner plates and sleeps in my mom’s bed, and we’re the ones who put our faces into his face,” one family member tells NBC News affiliate WRAL.

Two pet dogs in Hong Kong tested positive for COVID-19, and both dogs lived in homes with COVID-19 positive owners. Local health officials characterize the cases of the two dogs in Hong Kong as “likely to be a case of human-to-animal transmission,” and neither dog showed any signs of illness from the virus.

Hong Kong health officials have continued to test dogs and cats owned by people infected with the coronavirus. Officials there have stated that cases of infection in dogs appear to be infrequent. As of March 25, Hong Kong’s Agriculture, Fisheries, and Conservation Department “conducted tests on 17 dogs and eight cats from households with confirmed COVID-19 cases or persons in close contact with confirmed patients, and only two dogs had tested positive for the COVID-19 virus.”

Hong Kong officials stress that “these findings indicate that dogs and cats are not infected easily with this virus, and there is no evidence that they play a role in the spread of the virus.”

Can other animals contract COVID-19?

Two pet cats in New York have tested positive for the coronavirus. One cat displayed mild respiratory symptoms, and lived with an owner who had previously tested positive for COVID-19. The other cat also showed mild respiratory signs, and according to the CDC, “no individuals in the household were confirmed to be ill with COVID-19. The virus may have been transmitted to this cat by mildly ill or asymptomatic household members or through contact with an infected person outside its home.” Globally, two pet cats, one in Hong Kong and one in Belgium, tested positive for COVID-19. Both of these cats lived in homes with COVID-19 positive owners.

A four-year-old female Malayan tiger named Nadia at New York’s Bronx Zoo was the first known case of COVID-19 in an animal in the United States. A total of eight big cats are confirmed by the Wildlife Conservation Society that operates the Bronx Zoo to have been infected with the coronavirus known as SARS-CoV-2. “All eight cats continue to do well. They are behaving normally, eating well, and their coughing is greatly reduced,” according to WCS. Nadia was tested under anesthesia in order to obtain nose, throat, and respiratory tract samples. The other cats were tested through fecal samples.

All of these big cats are believed to have been infected by a zoo staff person who was not showing symptoms of COVID-19, or before that person developed symptoms. Dr. Jane Rooney, a veterinarian and USDA official, tells the Associated Press, “There doesn’t appear to be, at this time, any evidence that suggests that the animals can spread the virus to people or that they can be a source of infection in the United States.” The American Veterinary Medical Association also reports on preliminary results of “experimental infection” of domestic cats, ferrets, hamsters, and dogs in China, but cautions that these results don’t represent real-world circumstances and should not be overly interpreted.

Lessons in Life

Work like you don't need the money.
Love like nobody has ever hurt you.
Dance like nobody is watching.
Sing like nobody is listening.
Live as if this was paradise on Earth.

Keeping a Perspective

For a small amount of perspective during these crazy times, imagine you were an American born in 1900.

- When you are 14, World War I starts and ends on your 18th birthday with 22 million people killed. Later in the year, a Spanish Flu epidemic hits the planet and runs until you are 20. Fifty million people die from it in those two years. Yes, 50 million.
- When you're 29, the Great Depression begins. Unemployment hits 25%, global GDP drops 27%. That runs until you are 33. The country nearly collapses along with the world economy.
- When you turn 39, World War II starts. You aren't even over the hill yet.
- When you're 41, the United States is fully pulled into WWII.
- Between your 39th and 45th birthday, 75 million people perish in the war and the Holocaust kills six million.
- At 52, the Korean War starts and five million perish.
- At 64 the Vietnam War begins, and it doesn't end for many years. Four million people die in that conflict.
- Approaching your 62nd birthday you have the Cuban Missile Crisis, a tipping point in the Cold War. Life on our planet, as we know it, could well have ended. Great leaders prevented that from happening.
- As you turn 75, the Vietnam War finally ends.
- Think of everyone on the planet born in 1900. How do you survive all of that? A kid in 1985 didn't think their 85-year old grandparent understood how hard school was. Yet those grandparents (and now great grandparents) survived through everything listed above.
- Perspective is an amazing art. Let's try and keep things in perspective. Let's be smart, help each other out, and we will get through all of this. In the history of the world, there has never been a storm that lasted. This too, shall pass.

America, we need to pray and lead from our spirits and not our emotions - and definitely not with our weapons.

NEVADA BUYS GOV. SISOLAK NEW $10 MILLION FOREIGN BUILT JET

The Nevada Department of Transportation (NDOT) just spent $14 million to purchase 2 new private jets for the State of Nevada. NDOT currently operates a U.S. built Cessna Citation II and a turbo prop Aero Commander. The new aircraft, a Pilatus PC-24, is built in Switzerland and is raising eyebrows. NDOT is also purchasing a King Air 350. NDOT claims they are saving around $2 million in maintenance on the new planes. Only government spends $14 million to save $2 million.

The purchases were approved in the State Legislature without any opposition. But the issue of competitive bidding and purchasing a foreign built aircraft when there are comparable aircraft built in the U.S. has raised the attention of many lawmakers. 360 did some research and found that the PC-24 fuel costs, on average, are the same and the hourly costs were about the same as the U.S. Built Citation CJ4. Both the PC-24 and the U.S. built Citation CJ4 use the same engine, the Williams International FJ44-4A. It's the Williams engines that deliver the bulk of the savings in terms of fuel and overhaul costs. BTW Williams has a program to refit NDOT's current Citation II with new Williams engines for around $2 million.

Group Files NEW Petition to Recall Gov. Steve Sisolak
